

Expedia Cruises of Bloomington's Guides to Cruise ports: Port Everglades / Ft. Lauderdale

Airport Proximity and Transportation

One of the nice things about this cruise port is the proximity to the international airport (FLL) and a large number of hotel rooms within 3 miles. Taxis and Ubers are plentiful for getting back and forth. I definitely don't advise paying what the cruise lines ask for shuttles to/from the airport. You'll find yourself sitting for a length of time in the airport waiting for enough other guests to arrive to fill a bus while paying more.

Alternative Airports

You can also fly into other South Florida Airports (Miami – about 35 minutes in friendly traffic or West Palm Beach – just under an hour without traffic), but your transfers will be longer. Miami to Port Everglades has far more transportation options than West Palm Beach will.

Getting to Your Port Everglades Cruise

Cruise Line Transfers

Look for the cruise line's representatives near the baggage carousels inside the airport terminals. They'll direct you to the proper shuttle area.

Rideshare and Taxis

Uber, Lyft, and taxis can pick you up from the designated shuttle areas on the west (left) side of the terminals. (Blue Boxes Above) Follow the signs for the best location.

Terminal Layout

FLL airport has a horseshoe shape, with Terminal 1 in the northeast and the other terminals moving counter-clockwise. There are currently 4 terminals, with a 5th planned by 2026.

Port Everglades Terminals

Port Everglades has 8 cruise line terminals. Terminal placement is generally fairly predictable, but in high traffic, terminals can overlap usage between brands. If you're driving, you'll see the ship locations on overhead displays. Be prepared to show identification to gain entry to the port area, particularly if you're coming in from I595 or FL84. You can get to terminals 2 and 4 without the checkpoint if you come in from the north on SE 17th Street. If you're coming in by shuttle or taxi, sit back and relax, they know where they're going!

Hotel Recommendations

Hotels: We can help you reserve the right hotel for your needs, from basic to deluxe. As an agency, we travel frequently from these ports and have spent a lot of nights in hotels! Our suggestions have all been vetted. Not that any individual stay in any property on the planet can't have things go goofy, our recommendations are generally pretty solid in our experiences.
